

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

[0043] A method for processing distribution channel data integrating business information with geographic data to produce integrated data, wherein the integrated data has greater resolution than the business information. Distribution channel data is
5 captured and correlated with the integrated data to increase the resolution of the distribution channel data.